
Rachel Marks

rachel.marks@ucf.edu

EDUCATION

PhD in Texts and Technology

University of Central Florida, Orlando, Florida
Expected Graduation 2024

Master of Arts in English - Rhetoric and Composition

University of Central Florida, Orlando, Florida
Graduated 2020

Graduate Certificate in Professional Writing

University of Central Florida, Orlando, Florida
Graduated 2017

Bachelor of Arts in Theatre

Rollins College, Winter Park, Florida
Graduated summa cum laude 2014

CONFERENCES AND PRESENTATIONS

Marks, Rachel. “Legends of Queerness’: Fan Perspectives of Sara Lance’s Bisexuality on Tumblr.” Fan Studies Network North America Conference. 13 October 2020, Virtual. Conference Presentation.

Marks, Rachel. “I Like Men and I Like Women’: Sara Lance as a Representation of Bisexuality in the World of the Arrowverse.” Mid-Atlantic Popular and American Culture Association Conference, 7 November 2019, Pittsburgh Marriott City Center, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. Conference Presentation.

Marks, Rachel. “#20GAYTEEN: Superhero Television and Queer Fan Activity on Tumblr.” Fan Studies Network North America Conference. 26 October 2018, DePaul University. Chicago, Illinois. Conference Presentation.

Marks, Rachel. “Panel: Queer Fan Spaces.” Fan Studies Network North America Conference. 26 October 2018, DePaul University, Chicago, Illinois. Panel Moderator.

Marks, Rachel. “Sara Lance and Bisexuality: From Arrow to DC’s Legends of Tomorrow.” UCF English Symposium Conference. 2 March 2018, University of Central Florida, Orlando, Florida. Conference Presentation.

TEACHING AND PROFESSIONAL EXPERIENCE

Graduate Teaching Associate

First-Year Composition Instructor

University of Central Florida, 2018-present.

Graduate Teaching Assistant

Writing Center Consultant

University of Central Florida, 2017-2018.

Student Editor

Stylus: a Journal of First-Year Writing

University of Central Florida, 2018.

COURSES TAUGHT

ENC 1101: Composition I

Introduction to Writing Studies

ENC 1102: Composition II

Situated Inquiry of Writing and Rhetoric